Main areas of interest:

The research activity of prof. Bucci deals physiological processes in vascular homeostasis and inflammatory-based vascular diseases. In this context it is possible to identify the following topics:

- role of endogenous gasotransmitters (CO, NO, H₂S) in vascular homeostasis and in the development of inflammatory-based vascular diseases
 - studies on proteinases activated receptors (PAR1 and PAR2) as a knot between coagulation and inflammation
 - pharmacological assays and molecular analysis on natural and/or synthetic compounds as a potential anti-inflammatory and antithrombotic agents
 - prof. Bucci has also contributed on the shingosine-1-phosphate and its transduction mechanism as proinflammatory signal in bronchial hyperactivity
 - prof. Bucci has actively participated to clarify the molecular mechanisms involved in inflammatory arthropathies in both clinical and experimental settings.
